

put in the 75 percent. Now I don't know if Senator Lynch can answer this question or Senator Will, either, whoever, do we have any idea how many different types of establishments we're talking about? I realize there is one that Senator Lynch is talking about. Do we have any idea how many establishments we're talking about, Senator Lynch? Or Senator Will?

SENATOR LYNCH: No, I'm not quite sure, but it might be good at this time to point out that for any of you that support LB 849, the lottery bill, lottery tickets cannot be sold in liquor establishments, but they can be sold in grocery stores, Kwik Shops and everywhere else. Now if you consider buying a pickle, no more or less gambling than buying a lottery ticket, then the whole argument about whether children have access to gambling is pretty much overcome, so we'd have to apply, assume the same standards to the lottery bill that we have and keep those out of the same kind of establishments that would apply as far as this, but a number of establishments, Senator Moore, I'm not really quite sure.

SENATOR MOORE: Senator Smith thinks she has an answer, and if she would so yield, I would let her answer that.

PRESIDENT MOUL: Senator Smith.

SENATOR SMITH: Well, I'd sure like to do that, and I can only tell you that the information that we got when we asked that question was that they didn't believe, we got a note back from the Department, or the Gaming Division, and they didn't think that it would be...change significantly the number of folks that would be involved in that. So that's really all I can tell you because we've asked that same question.

SENATOR MOORE: Well, Senator Lynch raises a perfectly good point. I mean, there's no, really, big differentiation between the pickle cards and the lottery tickets. I happen to have never been a fan of the lottery though I may support it just to get it on the ballot. I would agree with Senator Lynch, but I guess at this point in time I don't think we need to dilute the law we passed a few years ago that the intent was to try and keep the pickle cards sales in a place of predominantly, makes their business predominantly as a liquor establishments so they're not in the more family oriented environments and people would not be walking in there. That was one of the problems, that was one of the issues that got the pickle cards in problems
